A New Serial Story: Iqbal by Francesco D'Adamo

15 chapters, reading level 4th grade, read aloud for all ages

This is the true story of Iqbal Masih - a courageous thirteen-year-old boy from Pakistan who knew that his life was worth more than a rug, that chaining children to looms to work hours without rest was not right, and there was a way to stop the abuse. This story is not only compelling to read, but it also shines a light on the vital issue of human rights.

You can download a teachers guide for Iqbal at <http://nie.journalnow.com>. The guide offers chapter-by-chapter lessons and activities to enhance the reading of this story. Lessons include vocabulary words, comprehension questions, an extension writing activity and newspaper activities.

Learning Standards include: Evaluating ethical issues, recognizing cultural features, understanding percent, locating/organizing information, writing for fluency, understanding economic forces, using descriptive language, character education, etc.

Start your school year off by requesting the Monday edition of the W-S Journal each week through May 2006. You will not want to miss any of the serial stories and serialized features.
